OPIOID CRISIS
HELP IS HERE

DID YOU KNOW 72,000 Americans overdosed in 2017, a record number that reflects a 10% increase, according to new preliminary estimates from the Centers for Disease Control (New York Times, 2018).

How soon can I get help?

Crisis counseling is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year by simply dialing 2-1-1 on your phone. You may contact a treatment provider directly and they will discuss walk-in and appointment options with you.

What will I have to pay?

You will be screened for financial eligibility during your first appointment. Insurance coverage/lack of coverage, income, and family size will determine where you fall on a sliding fee scale. Many patients pay only copays or reduced fees. You may even qualify for free services.

Opioid addiction affects many aspects of our communities; such as, public and private sector employers, tourism, education, law enforcement, criminal justice system, child welfare, and hospitals...all taxpayers. Most importantly it affects families, children, and our consumers. It affects EVERYONE. How can you help? Educate yourself. Learn what signs to look for and what resources are available?
